

SHKP-Kwoks' Foundation meets with representatives of various universities

Hong Kong, 17 October, 2023: The SHKP-Kwoks' Foundation is committed to building close ties with different universities to cultivate talent for the country. With the pandemic now ended, the Foundation has endeavored to cultivate stronger connections with the beneficiary universities. Recently, a delegation from Peking University visited Hong Kong, and representatives from the Foundation embarked on visits to several mainland universities to exchange views on educational support.

Since its establishment, the Foundation has provided scholarships to 29 tertiary institutions, benefitting over 11,000 graduates.

1. Peking University's delegation to Sun Hung Kai Properties headquarters in Hong Kong

Prof Ning Qi (fifth right), Deputy Secretary of the Party Committee and Vice President of Peking University led a delegation to Sun Hung Kai Properties' (SHKP) headquarters in Hong Kong and met with SHKP-Kwoks' Foundation Executive Director Amy Kwok (fifth left). Ms Kwok said Peking University offers a diverse range of subjects and encouraged the beneficiary students to “travel more, see more and learn more” to broaden their horizons. On the career prospects of graduates, she said Hong Kong has great demand for top talent. The Hong Kong SAR government has introduced a number of talent recruitment measures such as the Top Talent Pass Scheme to facilitate graduates to come to Hong Kong to further their professional journeys.

On behalf of Peking University, Ning Qi expressed her gratitude to the Foundation for its donations over the years to support students from financially disadvantaged families, including the provision of different scholarship schemes for outstanding students studying single or double degree programmes.

2. SHKP-Kwoks’ Foundation’s visit to Peking University

The Foundation delegation recently visited Peking University. They exchanged views on the implementation of subsidy programmes and explored opportunities to enhance collaboration on innovative and impactful education initiatives that align with national development. Ning Qi (front, fourth right) said she hoped the beneficiaries will integrate personal growth and development with the overall prosperity and advancement of the nation. She encouraged them to approach their studies with a positive and confident attitude, and to carry forward the warm and caring spirit they have received.

3. SHKP-Kwoks' Foundation's visit to Tongji University

During the Foundation representatives' visit to Shanghai, a meeting was held between Terry Li (right), Director of the SHKP-Kwoks' Foundation, Fang Shouen (left), Secretary of the Party Committee of Tongji University, and other senior management members of the university. During the meeting, Mr Fang shared the university's recent advancements in talent cultivation, disciplinary development and scientific research. He expressed gratitude towards the Foundation for its longstanding donations and collaboration, and looked forward to expanding the partnership and exploring new avenues to achieve even more remarkable results.

4. SHKP-Kwoks' Foundation's visit to Fudan University

Terry Li (fourth right), along with other Foundation representatives, met with senior management and beneficiary students of Fudan University in Shanghai. Dr Chen Zhimin (centre), Vice President of Fudan University, expressed his gratitude for the Foundation's scholarships, which have not only alleviated the financial burden of the students from financially disadvantaged backgrounds but also fostered their confidence and helped them complete their studies. Additionally, the scholarships have empowered the students to become more independent and inspired them to help others. He said he looked forward to closer collaboration between the Foundation and the university.

Click here for the photos.

— End —